Executive Director's View

"Take My Hand," by Dr. Bob Hassmiller, CCBO Executive Director

I am reminded of the hand that the community college offers to so many people. My son has failed courses at community colleges in both Virginia and New Jersey. In each instance professionals of the college offered him a hand to improve himself. He didn't take it - hopefully he will eventually. My wife last month received the Leroy Collins Lifetime Achievement Award for the Florida Community College system. She received her RN at then Broward Community College, continuing on through various work and school settings.

Constitution and Bylaws

The board of directors of the Community College Business Officers has been reviewing significant organizational changes for the past year. After a thorough discussion, these changes were unanimously approved by the board of directors at their September 2009 meeting, as were the resulting bylaw revisions necessary to implement the proposed new organization structure.
